Last week, TGT joined other industry professionals at ICoTA European Chapters' annual dinner which took place at the Marcliffe, Pitfodels in Aberdeen, UK.

TGT was delighted to partner with ICoTA who are a global, not-for-profit organisation whose ambition is to boost the value of well intervention solutions within the oil and gas industry.

"This event has become a recognised feature in the oil and gas industry calendar and attracts the very best operators, service and technology providers as well as industry experts and academia", commented Mohamed Hegazi, CEO, TGT, who spoke at the ICoTA dinner to an audience of leading well intervention professionals. "We are privileged to be part of this community and at such a dynamic time" he added.

ICoTA's aim is to improve communication and knowledge sharing across the industry. They provide global networking opportunities across all well intervention disciplines, bringing together a diverse range of professional and technical experience, so the industry can benefit as a whole.

Mohamed commented on the similarities between TGT and ICoTA as both young but established organisations. "ICoTA established itself as a pioneer in the world of "intervention knowledge sharing" and continues to expand its network and chapters. Similarly, TGT pioneered the domain of through-barrier diagnostics and likewise continues to expand links to academia and R&D investment".

Mohamed concluded by thanking ICoTA for the opportunity to support the event.
